Victoria Bordea from Chișinău will never forget that day in her life. It was the day when, with tears in her eyes, she left her three-year-old daughter in the care of a friend and went to the hospital for an intervention to treat a precancerous lesion of the cervix. She never believed that something like this could happen to her. She knew about the preventive pap smear test for cervical cancer, but why should she take it? She had never experienced any symptoms. She could think of anything but a precancerous lesion.

Gender Equality & Ending Gender Based Violence

Cresc un bărbat, dar nu uit că e copil

A campaign about boys' education for parents and kindergarten staff was launched for the first time in Moldova

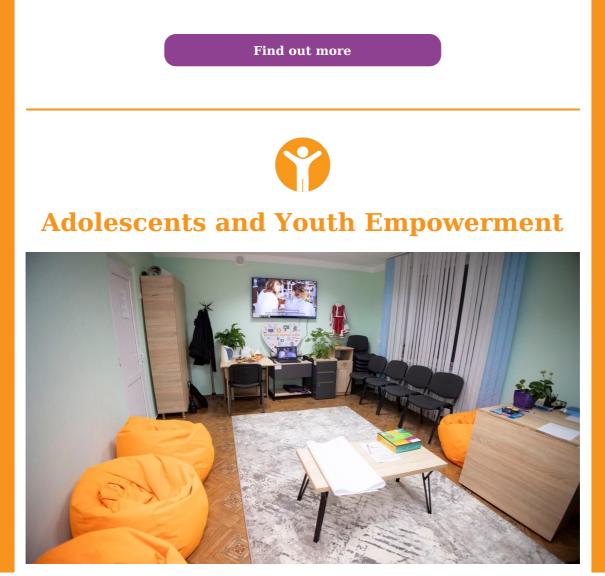

How much love should we show boys? Why do they mature later than girls? How should we react when they cry or shout? Early education up to the age of 7 is crucial in shaping social skills and behavior. The lack of intervention or healthy education principles can impact the development of the future adult's personality. The campaign "Raising a Man, but Remembering He's a Child," the first of its kind in the Republic of Moldova, will provide parents and early education institution (EEI) staff with valuable information and specific recommendations from specialists in the field on the most sensitive needs and challenges in the education of preschool-aged boys.
